

Photo courtesy of the Palm Beach County Bar Association

Members of the Palm Beach County Bar Association, from left, first row: D. Culver Smith III, chairman of the historical committee; Meenu Sasser, president of the Bar Association; Doris Le, student, Jupiter Middle School; Joe Sigman, student, Wellington Landings Middle School and Pauline Thiemann, student, Jupiter Middle School. Second row, exhibit sponsors: Todd Romano, Romano Law Group; Gary Lesser, Lesser, Lesser, Landy & Smith; Brian LaBovick, LaBovick & LaBovick; Robert Gordon, Gordon & Doner and Jason Weisser, Schuler Halvorson & Weisser. Third row, exhibit sponsors: Don Beuttenmuller, Gunster Yoakley & Stewart; Larry Alexander, Jones, Foster, Johnston & Stubbs; Michael Napoleone, Richman Greer; and Garth Yearick, Carlton Fields.

County bar association to offer exhibit

FOR HOMETOWN NEWS

PALM BEACH COUNTY — The Palm Beach County Bar Association, with support from its members and local law firms, will create and donate "And Justice for All," an educational exhibit for the courtroom in the restored historic 1916 Palm Beach County Courthouse located in downtown West Palm Beach.

The exhibit will feature interactive displays and information about the state and federal constitutions, the Bill of Rights and the separation of powers, as well as significant events in Palm Beach County's legal history.

In addition, visitors will see a video testimonial to William Holland, one of the first African-American lawyers in Palm Beach County and a leader in the desegregation of the public schools and other public facilities.

"As part of the bar's theme of tradition and education this year, we are very excited to present this everlasting gift to our community," said Meenu Sasser, president of the association in a press release. "The exhibits will appeal to all ages, from school-age children to adults."

"In my 40 years as a member of the Palm Beach County Bar Association, I can't think of a more meaningful contribution by the local bar to the citizens of this county," said D. Culver Smith III, chairman of the bar association's historical committee.

Tours will be given to schools and the public by the historical society beginning in April.