JUPITER — More than 125,000 people attended ArtiGras Fine Arts Festival 2009. Celebrating 24 successful years, the Festival was held Feb. 14-16 at Abacoa Town Center in Jupiter.

Recently named one of the top 50 fine art festivals in the country, ArtiGras features juried artists, demonstrations, a youth art competition, the ArtiKids children's interactive activity area, entertainment and more.

Heidi Reiff, Esq. of Lesser, Lesser, Landy & Smith, PLLC, co-chaired the ArtiKids area of ArtiGras for the first time this year.

"I had so much fun watching the kids use their imagination and creativity," Reiff said. "I think next year the kids' programming will be even more successful. ArtiGras went 'green' this year, which was also very pleasing."

Morris "Skip" Miller, an attorney at Ruden McClosky, has been actively involved with ArtiGras for the past 10 years, serving as the co-chair of Hospitality and chair of Concessions for three years before that.

"It was a real pleasure having Heidi join the ArtiGras Steering Committee as Co-Chair of the ArtiKids area," Miller said. "She worked really hard, had a great attitude, and as a result of her efforts, a lot of kids (and their parents) left ArtiGras with smiles on their faces."

"It was truly a pleasure to have Heidi Reiff as our new Co-Chair of the ArtiKids area this year," Suzanne Neve, director of Programs and Services for the Northern Palm Beach County Chamber of Commerce, producer of ArtiGras. said. "Heidi's dedication and commitment to ArtiGras helped make this year's kids area one of the best ever! Volunteers, like Heidi are the life blood of the festival and we value their service, time and effort."

Reiff has been practicing law for 20 years, concentrating her practice in the areas of personal injury and wrongful death litigation, and has been with Lesser, Lesser, Landy & Smith, PLLC since 2004.

Besides volunteering for ArtiGras, Reiff serves on the Board of Directors for the Palm Beach County Justice Association and MorseLife Geriatric Center.
